To a person uninitiated, the publication of any directory, no matter how voluminous, may seem a trifling task. To us, who, through the past few months, have been laboriously engaged in preparing the present work, it seems, looking back upon its many and unavoidable annoyances, a task indeed, and one which we are only too glad to have finally completed.

While we make no pretensions of being able to present to the citizens of Fort Wayne and Allen County, a perfect Directory, we are confident that you will uphold us in the assumed confidence that this is the most nearly so, of any that you have ever had. The number of names in the City Directory proper, is larger, by nearly one thousand, than any that has ever before been issued, a reasonable argument in the substantiation of the thoroughness of the canvass, and a pleasureable one in the assurance that we may take to ourselves as being residents of a rapidly growing city, and from whose growth and increase in wealth and importance we all have a reasonable hope of receiving permanent benefits.

For the County part of the Directory we claim an entire originality both in the method and amount of information condensed in each description of the man, his where and what-about, and are confident that to the business man, the farmer, or the curious even, this part of the book will be found to be of great advantage, and looked upon as a not despicable medium of authority.

To the business and professional men of the City and County, who have so generously extended to the work their sympathies in the form of encouragement, by advertisements, subscriptions, and a general interest in the work itself; to the Press, who have so kindly noticed the work in its different stages of progress; to our publishers, the FORT WAYNE GAZETTE Co., from whom we have received not only a quid pro quo in excellence of workmanship on the book itself, but many valuable suggestions as to its arrangement, together with an unexpected interest and valuable assistance whenever or wherever it could be rendered, and to the citizens of the County who have so universally and unhesitatingly assisted the work of the canvassers by supplying the requisite information, as also by placing their names on our subscription list, we would extend our warmest thanks, with the kindest wishes and greatest confidence in your future prosperity as a City and County.

THE CITY OF FORT WAYNE.

To write the history of a city like Fort Wayne, requires more than ordinary research and diligence. So many facts cluster around its early history that it is difficult to place them all in the brief limits assigned us. Yet a Directory of Fort Wayne would, without at least a resume of its history, be like the play of Hamlet with the part of Hamlet omitted—almost a tale with the gorgeous, golden sky of mid-summer, told in the dreary winter time. No compilation purporting to be a correct Directory of the Summit City would be complete did it not tell, in some little measure, at least, of the founding and the founders, of the frontier settlement which is now the second city in the sovereign State of Indiana. No book would be complete, nor would it be accepted as such, did it not mention in some little degree the hair-breadth escapes and the “dangers by field and flood” passed through and encountered by the brave and hardy men who laid the foundation of our city and the basis of its present wealth and prosperity.

Fort Wayne, situated on an elevated plain, the highest we believe in the State, at the junction of the St. Mary's and St. Joseph rivers, forming at this point the Maumee, was from the earliest period of our history as a nation, a point of great interest to the government of the United States. The French, who after the first permanent settlement of America by the English, forced from their apathy by the success of their ancient and hereditary foes of "perfidious Albion," were the first to discover the importance of this point as a trading centre with the aborigines, and as a post from which to conduct their military operations. As early as the year 1700 it was visited by them, and shortly after (1719 or a little previous) they established here a military and trading centre second to none in importance in a military or commercial point of view, in what was then known as the Western or Indian country. This section was at that time inhabited by the powerful tribes of the Miamis and Pottawatomies. In the language of the former, the site of Fort Wayne was called Kek-i-ong-gay, and in that of the latter tribe by the synonymous but less euphonic name of Kek-i-ouge. The at that time Governor of Louisiana, Vandrevil, first located Fort Miami at this point. It was merely a picket fort, built very nearly on the spot now occupied by the canal aqueduct.

Four nations have at different periods been dominant here. For an unknown time the dusky Indian claimed it as his hunting ground, and paddled his canoe on the waters of the three rivers. Before the province of Canada was wrested from France the lilies of St. Louis waved at the junction of the waters. In 1760 the cross of St. George replaced the lilies, and was lowered in its turn before the advancing stars and bars of the new nation of Washington, Adams and Franklin. The French power entirely vanished after the massacre of an English garrison stationed here during the Pontiac war.

After the Declaration of Independence by the Continental Congress in 1776, and the government of the United States began its career of Empire in the broad and fertile country of the Northwest, Washington contemplated the establishment here of a military post, with true martial instinct, seeing its importance as a basis of operations. His plans, however, were for the time frustrated by the defeat of General St. Clair. In the year 1794, however, the plan was consummated by General Wayne, who, after breaking the powers of the Indians at the rapids of the Maumee, selected this as a site for a post, which was completed in the same year, and named Fort Wayne; a name which has since become "not unknown to fame" as one of the most thriving, energetic and prosperous of our inland cities. Mark the change. Seventy-five years ago where now stands the beautiful "Summit City," with its long streets lined with business blocks crowded with merchandise from every clime, cloths from the factories of the east and cereals from the grain fields of the west, the savage reigned supreme. Where now the ground is trodden by thousands engaged in the busy pursuit of gain—then was heard the cry of the wild beast, and the softest tones that broke upon the air was when the savage “wooded his dusky mate.” Instead of the towering spires of the churches, the tall tree reared its bold front, and the rude bark wigwam must replace in the imagination the elegant residences of a later refinement.

The city has been greatly enlarged from its original proportions, and the population has increased proportionately. The population in 1810 was about 500, and in 1830, 800. A charter for incorporation as a city was granted by the Legislature in 1839, when the population consisted of scarce 1,200 souls. In 1850, however, it had attained to 4,100; to 10,300 in 1860, and now Fort Wayne ranks as the second city in the State, both in its importance as a railroad and business centre, and in the number of its inhabitants, which has increased since the census of 1860, in a very great ratio not often exceeded in this West of ours where towns spring up as by magic and become cities in every sense by what would seem to the plodders of the old world, a miraculous growth.

Various are the causes by which this result has been attained. The situation of the city, as the centre of an expansive and fertile country; no city north of Indianapolis and Lafayette, with which to compete; and the facility with which commerce could be carried on by our means of communication. Of these, the Wabash & Erie canal, which was completed in the year 1842, was the first. This great work furnished a way of transporting merchandise to and from the lake at Toledo, Ohio, and the water power afforded the facilities for the erection of mills and manufactories. Though the canal has passed through its energetic youth and prime, yet it still is an important avenue for the transportation of heavy articles, such as lumber, salt, etc., and its projectors will always be remembered with gratitude, as by its construction they gave the first impetus to the city which has since reached such proportions. In 1848 the Plank roads were built in almost every direction, thus bringing a large trade that before had no adequate way of reaching the city. Of these, though valuable in their day, we may say they are almost gone, and would that they were entirely so. By transposing two words of a well-known quotation, we may write their fitting epitaph, "May we never look upon their like again."

Previous to this, steam had entered upon the stage of the world as one of its most potent actors, and the genius of Fulton and Stevenson had made this powerful agent subservient to the use of many. In 1852 the old Ohio & Indiana R. R. was laid out and in 1854 it was completed. In the latter year the Fort Wayne & Chicago road was begun, being finished in three years later. The combination of these two roads made the P., F. W. & C. R. R., with a line of travel 467 miles in length, constituting one of the very first roads in the land, whether for its accommodations or its importance as a carrier. The late lease of this road to the Pennsylvania Central Rail Road Co. furnishes a through line from Philadelphia to Chicago, and an unbroken link of travel from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans. The Toledo, Wabash & Western Rail Road, inferior to none in importance, connects Lake Erie at Toledo with the Mississippi river, at Keokuk, Iowa, and Quincy, Illinois, making connections at the former city, with the Des Moines Valley road, which runs through the most fertile portions of Iowa, and at the latter place with the Hannibal & St. Joe R. R., the great thoroughfare of Missouri.

Beyond and apart from the great amount of travel and freight brought through Fort Wayne by these great roads, it has the advantage of being a central point on both, and was almost necessarily selected as the location for their immense shops for the building and repairing of rolling stock. From these shops, in a great degree, result the wealth and prosperity of the city.

The buildings of the Toledo, Wabash & Western Railway consist of a brick freight depot 60x25 feet, wood shop 200x30, blacksmith shop 160x40, brick machine shop 160x100, round house 140 feet in diameter, and capable of holding twenty-four locomotives, and a very convenient and well-built passenger depot, 100 feet long by 40 in width. The road and shops employ something over five hundred men, with an annual pay-roll of about $375,000, and an annual expenditure for material of $3,000,000.

The shops of the P., F. W. & C. R. R. are commensurate with the importance of the road. The buildings are a brick office for the Superintendent and Engineers, two stories high, and fifty feet square, transfer house 200x25, freight depot 200x60, a large, brick passenger depot 290x60, car shops two stories high, 225x75, with wings each 185x75, constructing about thirty-five passenger cars each year, and fifty freight cars per month, using over 18,000,000 feet of lumber, with other materials in proportion. The machine shop is 335x110 feet, with offices at one end, boiler shop 140x50, blacksmith shop 320x80, round house with capacity for forty-eight engines, water house, oil house and paint shop. All the machine and repair work for the Western Division of the road is done here, and the number of men in the shops and on the road is over 3,000. The total expenditures for labor and material per month is over $290,000.

In October, 1855, the city was first lighted by gas, the Fort Wayne Gas Co. having been incorporated in the early part of that year. The capacity of the holder is for over 60,000 feet, and over ten miles of pipe have already been laid.

The late system of sewerage adopted by the city renders Fort Wayne one of the best drained of our inland cities, while in the matter of Nicholson pavements it surpasses any city of equal size, each succeeding summer seeing an additional improvement of this kind.

NEW RAILROADS.

Three new railroads are in rapid process of completion. These are the Fort Wayne, Muncie & Cincinnati; the Grand Rapids & Indiana, and the Fort Wayne, Jackson & Saginaw. The first named gives a more direct and speedier route to Indianapolis, (a much needed improvement,) and a direct connection with Cincinnati and the valley of the Ohio. The second and third furnishes an avenue to the pineries, salt, gypsum and plaster of Central and Northern Michigan, connecting Fort Wayne with the flourishing cities of Jackson, Saginaw, Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids. The F. W., M. & C. Road is already finished to New Castle from Cincinnati, and will be in running order from this city to Bluffton by the 20th of October next, and it is confidently expected that the entire road will be completed by the end of the year. The other two roads will certainly reach our city within a year, as the work on both is being vigorously prosecuted. Great credit is due to Hon. Jesse L. Williams, Hon. A.

P. Edgerton, Hon. J. K. Edgerton, John H. Bass, Esq., S. Cary Evans, Esq., Henry J. Rudisill, Esq., and other gentlemen of Fort Wayne, for the energy manifested in securing these valuable thoroughfares, which but for them would either not have been built or would have avoided our city altogether. These roads, when finished, will make Fort Wayne a great railroad centre, and must result in a great increase of business, wealth and population. The signs are so patent, that he is blind, indeed, who fails to see the coming prosperity.

The Fort Wayne, Richmond & Cincinnati is also under some headway and will without doubt ultimately be constructed. When all are completed, six roads will centre here, making Fort Wayne, indeed, the very Colossus of Roads, (Rhodes.)

We have thus briefly and hastily sketched some of the public improvements, and in so limited a space, of course very imperfectly. We now come to private enterprises which in no less degree than public ones, are developing our latent resources and sending us "sounding onward," in the path of prosperity. Among our private enterprises the Fort Wayne Machine, Car Wheel and Boiler works of Bass & Hanna stand forth prominently. The machine shop is 44x116, blacksmith shop 44x30, foundry 60 x120, car wheel shop 60x180, and boiler shop 50x140, all brick buildings, to which are added the Excelsior Agricultural Works. All these together give employment to over two hundred men, with an average monthly pay-roll of $10,000, and a monthly expenditure for material of from $60,000 to 80,000.

The shops of J. C. Bowser & Co., and Murray & Baker are also extensive, having an average pay-roll of $6,000 and a monthly expenditure of $30,000. These shops are constantly run to their utmost capacity, and are, even then, unable to keep a supply sufficient for the demand. The large Woolen Factory of French, Hanna & Co., four stories in height, 105 feet long by 55 wide, and employing seventy men, is also an important enterprise. The Hub, Spoke and Bending factory of N. G. Olds & Son, employing one hundred and fifty men, using a million feet of sawed lumber, and making a million and a half of spokes annually; the extensive establishment of the same character, of Brackenridge & Taylor, on the canal feeder, and the works of McElfatrick & Wilder, for the manufacture of agricultural tools, must not be overlooked. Nor must the cabinet shop of John M. Miller, employing fifty or sixty men, the cabinet works of Griebel & Fee, and J. J. Klaehen, the planing mill and sash, door and blind factory of O. D. Hurd, which are very large and extensive, and give employment to a number of workmen, the factories of the same kind of Cochrane, Humphrey & Co., Clark & Rhinesmith, and A. C. Beaver, be forgotten.

The leading dry goods houses in the city are Root & Company, with a trade reaching up in the hundred thousand dollars, Townley, DeWald, Bond & Co., doing a like business, Foster Bros., C. Orff & Co., Frank & Thanouser, A. S. Evans and others. Root & Company have one of the largest dry goods houses in the west, and possess great advantages in the purchase and sale of goods. Their stock is as large and their prices as low as can be found in any house outside of the metropolitan cities. The dry goods stores of the city number over thirty. Some wholesale, with a trade of $300,000 a year, and retail over $200,000 a year. There are seventy groceries, wholesale and retail. Of the former B. Trentman & Son sell over $700,000 per year, and Huestis & Hamilton are not far behind. Nuttman & Dodez, retail grocers, in Ewing's new block, corner of Main and Harrison streets, occupy a first rate position, and do a very large business. Boltz & Bro., at the old Central Grocery, have also a large and increasing trade. De Groff Nelson & Co.'s fruit, agricultural and horticultural warehouse commands a large trade, which is being largely augmented by the energy of Mr. Nelson. There are also several hardware and stove stores, the largest of which are Oakley & Son's and Coombs & Co.'s, with sales of over $150,000; 12 drug stores, among which Meyer Bros. & Co., G. C. Nill & Co., Foot & Wooster, D. Vollmer and H. S. Wagner are the most prominent. Meyer Bros. & Co. do a very large business and have one of the finest stores in the whole country. Their sales amount to over $200,000 a year. Thirty clothing stores, M. E. Woodward and Max Nirdlinger's being the largest. Both of these are mammoth establishments, and are not surpassed in the West. M. E. Woodward does a large wholesale business, and both houses employ the very best workmen. Keil & Bro., books, stationery, &c., have a large trade, which is rapidly increasing. Of the 40 boot and shoe stores, Markley, Schrader & Co., take the lead. They have a large establishment and carry on a manufactory, employing 25 or 30 men. B. Trentman & Son, in addition to their wholesale grocery, have a china, glassware and crockery store, doing a large business. In addition to these we may mention among others, Smith's glue, tile and mattress manufactory; Killian Baker & Bro.'s piano manufactory, making first-class instruments; H. B. Taylor, lumber commission merchant; Mrs. Aveline & Gibson and W. W. Updegraff, dealers in milinery and fancy goods. J. G. Thieme does a large business in merchant tailoring.

In the real estate business, the principal dealers are John Hough, Esq., Samuel T. Hanna, Esq., and Hugh Hanna, Esq. Mr. Hough also adds to his real estate transactions, a very large insurance business. Messrs. Irwin & Skinner also do an extensive insurance business.

There are two daily and weekly papers—the GAZETTE and DEMOCRAT, and one German tri-weekly, the STAATS ZEITUNG. The GAZETTE is Republican and the DEMOCRAT and ZEITUNG are Democratic in politics. All have a large and increasing circulation, and are valuable mediums to advertisers.

Fort Wayne is surpassed by no city in the west of its size in banking capital. The First National, Fort Wayne National and Merchants' National Banks, and the house of Allen Hamilton & Co., together have a capital of about $1,000,000. The Fort Wayne Savings Bank is a new undertaking, but under its efficient management promises to be an entire success. Added to these are the several Building and Loan Associations with large capital.

The United States Land office was located here at an early day, and over a million of dollars were paid into the office in the year 1836. In 1844 the Indiana Land Agency was established, and has been ever since under one management with annual sales of $200,000.

In regard to religious and educational privileges, Fort Wayne surpasses any city in the State and need fear no comparison with the cities of the "Learned East." Her system of free schools gives the youth of both sexes almost unequalled facilities for acquiring not only an excellent English education, but prepares them for entering the junior class of our most noted colleges and universities. The school premises comprise four large brick and two frame buildings, with one more in process of erection. The high school building is a model of elegance and comfort, and reflects great credit upon its originators. The superintendent, Prof. J.

H. Smart, is a most successful manager, and it is due to him and the Board of Trustees, Messrs. Morgan, Irwin and Hoagland, to say that their efforts and energy have brought the schools to their present high state of perfection. Mr. Robert G. McNiece, principal of the High School is also entitled to great praise for the careful and conscientious manner in which his duties have been discharged. The whole number of teachers is fifty and of scholars, twenty-five hundred. Besides there are the Fort Wayne College, Rev. J. B. Robinson, President, Concordia College, Rev. William Sihler, President, and several private and denominational schools. All these combined furnish opportunities for the education of the young, rarely enjoyed by cities so comparatively new.

The twenty churches of the city almost entitle Fort Wayne to to be called the "City of Churches," and certainly offer all religious advantages to those who may wish to avail themselves of the "better road."

The general appearance of the city is beautiful and inviting. Its handsome streets, many of them lined with trees and fine public edifices, together with the multitude of elegant private residences, combine to make it one of the most pleasant of western cities.

In most sketches contained in city directories "buncombe" generally plays the most potent and important part. It seems to have been the province of most compilers to so exaggerate the truth that she became "distorted from her fair proportions," and the kernel was completely concealed under the superabundance of bark. In this brief and imperfect sketch we have, at least, attempted to do no more than fair and even justice to Fort Wayne, her surroundings and advantages. How far we have succeeded time will tell, but, whatever may be the result, our intentions have only been to give, as far as possible, a "true setting forth." The future of our city we think is bright and promising. Unless all signs fail, Fort Wayne is destined at no distant day to be the railroad, manufacturing and commercial centre of a much larger scope of country than even at the present time, and we know of no other city that offers greater inducements and advantages to the business man or manufacturer.

ABOIT

Township, situated in the western part of the county, and bounded on the north by Lake, on the east by Wayne, on the south by Lafayette, and on the west by Whitley County, was first settled in 1833 by Jesse Vermilyea, Richard Andrews, Richard Clark, Enoch Turner, William A. Gouty and Lot S. Bayless. Enoch Turner is the only one of these first settlers now residing in the Township. The surface of the township is rolling, the soil fertile and well timbered. The Aboit river, from which the township derives its name, flows through it in a southerly direction. The most direct means of communication with the township are by the Huntington and Illinois State Roads. The former striking the township about five miles from Fort Wayne, the latter branching off from the Huntington road about four miles from the city and running in a westerly direction through the northern portion of the township. The Toledo, Wabash and Western Railway passes through the southern portion of the township, but has no station. There is no post-master or post office, Fort Wayne being the post office address of nearly all the inhabitants. There is a Township Library of 201 volumes, Wm. A. Hamilton, Librarian. The township contains eight School Houses, and one Church. The population of the township is, males, 361; females, 363; total, 724.

Township, bounded on the north by St. Joseph, on the east by Jefferson, on the south by Marion, and on the west by Wayne townships, was first settled about the year 1823, by Jesse Adams, L. Edmonds, Charles Weeks and Israel Taylor, who were soon followed by others. The first birth in the township was that of John S. Rogers, October, 1825. The first death that of a daughter of Mrs. L. Adams, in the same month of the same year. The surface of the country is level and very heavily timbered, the soil fertile, a rich clayey loam, and well adapted to the raising of wheat, rye, oats and root crops.

The Maumee river flows through the township from east to west. The Six Mile creek also insures fertility in its immediate vicinity, and affords an excellent milling power. This township contains the village of New Haven, the largest and most enterprising village outside of Fort Wayne in Allen County. The means of transportation through and communication with this township are most ample. The Toledo, Wabash and Western Railway passes through the northern part, the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway through the central part, and the Wabash and Erie canal through the northern part.

The old Piqua road and New Haven Pike, the latter deserving especial mention as the best road in the county, are the principal ones in the township. John Rogers is probably the oldest of the first settlers now residing in the township. The population of Adams township, exclusive of the village of New Haven, is as follows: males, 796; females, 640; total, 1,436.

New Haven, the only town of any note in the township, and the largest and most enterprising village in the county, is situated on the Wabash and Erie Canal and Toledo, Wabash and Western Railway, six miles east of Fort Wayne.

This finely located and rapidly growing town was laid out about the year 1846, by Henry Burgess, a native of the State of Connecticut, who gave it the name of New Haven in honor of that "City of Elms" in his native State.

As a place of business, a location for a residence, or a manufacturing point, New Haven has many advantages—a good soil, good water power, facilities for transportation and travel by canal and railroad, and situated in an almost inexhaustible tract of the best of timber country, which supplies the material for several large manufactories of lumber, staves, headings, barrels, lath, shingles, etc., and gives constant employment to a great number of hands. The population of the place is, males, 510; females, 456; total, 966. Making a total in Adams Township, including the village of New Haven, of 2,057 souls.

CEDAR CREEK

Township, is bounded on the north by De Kalb County, east by Springfield Township, south by Milan and St. Joe, west by Perry. It was first settled by Joseph Shields, William Shields, John Manning, Moses Sivitz, sr., Mr. Note-stine and others. Cedar Creek, from which the Township derives its name, flows through the central part, from north-west to south-east, furnishing good water power which is being employed by Mr. John Vanzile, at the Pin Oak Mills, near the west line of the township, and by Miller, Stoner & Bro., at Cedarville, in running a first-class flouring mill, circular saw mill and planing mill. The St. Joseph river flows through the eastern part of the township, from north-east to south-west. The bottom lands along this river are among the most fertile in the county. The soil in the Cedar Creek bottoms is mostly sand, that near the river loam, and on the uplands a mixture of sand, clay and loam. The timber is hickory, oak, beech, ash, elm, maple, poplar, butternut, walnut, willow, and some cottonwood. Grain, hay, fruit, stock, etc., are raised in abundance in all parts of the township. Farms and roads are generally well kept. The township contains ten school houses, valued at $6,000; four churches valued at about $6,000; four flouring mills valued at $33,000; five saw mills, valued at $10,500; a woolen factory worth $4,000; a stave factory worth $5,000, and a shingle mill worth $4,000. There are two post offices, Leo, J. W. Baird, P. M., and Cedarville, John W. Smith, P. M. Population, 1613; males 775, females, 838.

HAMILTON, Leo Post Office, is situated on the west bank of the St. Joe river, about fourteen miles north-east of Fort Wayne. It contains three churches, one Methodist Episcopal, one United Brethern, one Catholic; a two story brick school house, one flouring mill, one steam saw mill, one tannery, a stave factory, a shingle factory, a woolen factory, three stores, one saloon, two blacksmith shops, a manufactory of horse rakes, three boot and shoe shops, one tin shop and two wagon shops. There is one physician in the place, and a pastor to each of the churches. A lodge of F. & A. M. meets monthly. There is also a flourishing lodge of Good Templars. Population about 240.

CEDARVILLE is pleasantly situated between the St. Joe river and Cedar Creek, near the mouth of the latter. It contains one church, (Methodist Episcopal,) one saw mill, one grist mill, a planing machine, a shingle factory, one store, one grocery, in which the post office is kept, a blacksmith shop, and a wagon shop. Cedarville, though its name has long been on the county map, is in fact, now only in the third year of its existence, is rapidly growing, and its inhabitants feel sanguine that it will become one of the first villages of the county. They are encouraged in this belief by the fact that it is accessible by steamboats on the St. Joe river, even at the lowest water mark.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

Trustee, John Schœrpf; Justices of the Peace, Boyd Thompson, David Steele; Constable, Iasac James; Assessor, Lonis Nettlehorst.

EEL RIVER

Township, situated in the north-western part of the county, is bounded on the north and west by Noble county, on the east by Perry, and on the south by Lake and Washington townships. It was first settled in the year 1823 by F. C. Shoaff, Wm. Mooney, Oliver Potter, Geo. Hand, and others. The surface of the township is generally level. The southern and eastern part being almost entirely prairie. The soil is a rich loam, well adapted to the raising of corn and grass. The principal streams are Eel River and Willow Creek. The township contains nine school houses, and one in the course of construction, two of which are of brick, and the remaining seven are wooden structures, three churches, one Methodist, one Baptist, and one United Brethren; two post offices, one Heller's Corners, west of the centre of the township, Thomas R. Morrison, post master, another in the western part of the township, on the Goshen road, Norris Heller, post master, one steam sawmill, one dry goods store, one boot and shoe establishment, two gunsmith shops, and one lodge of Good Templars. There are three ministers, two physicians, and no lawyer residing in the township, from which any inference may be drawn that will suit the taste of the reader. The number of scholars enrolled the last enumeration was 526. The oldest citizens residing in the township are Wm. Bennett, 86 years old, Samuel Harrison, 70 and Nathan Bennett, 70. The population of the township is as follows: males, 570; females, 521; total, 1091.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

Trustee, John M. Taylor; Justices of the Peace, G. W. Hutsell, John Valentine; Assessor, Ph. Hathaway.

JACKSON

Township, situated in the eastern, or south-eastern part of Allen County, is bounded on the north by Maumee, on the south by Monroe on the west by Jefferson and on the east by Paulding county.

The surface of the township is flat and very heavily timbered, the lumber which it affords finding a ready and convenient market at Monroeville. Flat Rock Creek and an unnamed tributary are the only streams in the township. The soil is strong and well adapted to the growing of grains and grasses, and fruit and root crops—some of the land, however, would be greatly improved by a thorough system of drainage. The first settlement was made in the year 1840 by George Bale, George Hollinger and Robert Mooney. The oldest settler now living in the township being George Hollinger.

The township contains three school houses, the last one erected in the year

1868, no church, and one township library, in care of the Trustee, Samuel Balyard. The principal roads traversing the township are the Sugar-ridge Road, from Fort Wayne to Van Wert, Ohio, the Paulding and Van Wert road and the Paulding and Monroeville.

Monroeville and New Haven are the principal shipping points and post office address for citizens of this township.

The township is very sparsely settled as yet, most of the land being owned by capitalists at Fort Wayne and other points abroad. The number of males in the township is 102; females, 87; total population, 189.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

Trustee, S. W. Bolyard; Justice of the Peace, Douglass L. Whitaker; Assessor, Constant Pernot.

J E F F E R S O N

Township, is bounded on the north by Milan, east by Jackson, on the south by Madison, and west by Adams townships. The surface is generally level, with a few good ridges of excellent land. The level land lying in the eastern part of the township, is well timbered, and only requires drainage to make it the most productive in the township, especially for grasses. The first settlement was made by Messrs. Whitney and Blackmore, in the year 1833. This was once a favorite Indian hunting ground. The streams abounding in fish, and to this day traces of the beaver are plain in many of the creeks, and arrow heads and tomahawks, of rude manufacture are frequently upturned by the plowshare. Wolves are said to have been a great pest to the early settlers, frequently committing serious depredations on their smaller stock. The oldest inhabitants in the township are Joseph Gronaur, A. Whitney, A. Wolf, Aretas Powers, and William Harper. The first birth was that of Reuben Powers in the year 1837. First marriage was that of Reuben Powers, sr., to Miss Eveline Whitney, in 1838, by William Brown, Esq.; first death was that of a child drowned in the year 1836. The Maumee river flows through the north-western part of the township. The Wabash and Erie canal, and Toledo, Wabash and Western Railroad pass through the northern, and the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway through the south-eastern corner of the township.

MAPLES, a small post office village, of 125 inhabitants, situated on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway, about ten miles from Fort Wayne, boasts one dry goods store, one grocery and saloon, one stave factory, Fitch & Maples, proprietors, which is doing a very prosperous business. It has also a prosperous I. O. G. T. lodge. Two doctors reside in the village. The township contains one church, Catholic, comprising a charge of 103 families; eleven schools, and one township library, in good condition. The population of the township is rated as follows: males, 615; females, 512; total 1,127.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

Trustee, Francis Gladio; Justices of the Peace, F. A. Ray, Nicholas Ladig; Assessor, Charles M. Joly.

L A F A Y E T T E

Township, which receives its name from the Marquis de Lafayette, so celebrated for the part he bore in our Revolutionary history, the south-west corner township of Allen county, is bounded on the north by Aboit, and on the east by Pleasant townships, and on the south by Wells, and west by Huntington counties. It was laid out in sections in the year 1840, and was first settled in the following year by James Wilson, William Jobs and Samuel Fogwell. Rebecca Fogwell was the first white child born. The first death was that of Samuel Fogwell. The township is well watered, in the southern part by Eight Mile creek, in the northern part by Little River, and in other parts by smaller streams. The Huntington and Indianapolis roads cross the township in a south-westerly direction and are the principal means of transportation. In the north-western part the surface is very rolling, but toward the opposite corner, becomes more level. The soil is very fertile and is well timbered, principally with hickory, oak, walnut and maple, but in some parts of the township considerable quantities of poplar are found. As a proof of the quality of the soil and the industry of the inhabitants one need only to look at the finely improved farms whose bountiful harvests of grains and fruits, and substantial buildings and surroundings, now gladden the eye of the old pioneer as well as the passer-by, where thirty years ago the silence of an almost impenetrable forest reigned supreme. The principal products are corn, wheat, oats and flax. The township contains eleven school houses, two churches, one German Methodist and one Evangelical Association, three saw mills, and three post offices—Aboit, in the north-western part of the township, nine miles from Fort Wayne; the Nine Mile post office, which as its name implies, is nine miles from Fort Wayne, is in the eastern part, and, ZANESVILLE, a small postal village of about 250 inhabitants, in the southern part on the line of division between Wells and Allen counties, fifteen miles from Fort Wayne. It contains one church, one general store, one shoe shop, one blacksmith shop, one wagon shop, and one saw mill. The Toledo, Wabash and Western Railway passes through the north-western part of the township, along the northern bank of Little River, but has no station. The population of the township ranks: males, 657, females, 622; total, 1,279.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

Trustee, James M. Young; Justices of the Peace, Samuel H. Ambler, John McClare; Assessor, John Ligget.

L A K E

Township, in the western part of the county is bounded on the north by Whitley county and Eel river township, on the east by Washington, and south by Aboit townships, and on the west by Whitley county. It was first settled in the year 1835 by Andrew Forsythe, who was followed in the fall of the same year by William Luckey, Samuel Caffrey and James Pringle. John McClure, Francis Sweet and Sampson Pierson settled here in the year 1836. The township was organized in the year 1837, and the first election held in April of the same year. There are three churches, one Methodist Episcopal, one Free Will Baptist, and one United Brethern, one church organization of the Catholic faith with a membership of seventy families, mostly of foreign birth; a Good Templar's lodge, and a township library. The soil is fertile, but in some parts rather low, all of this, however, is capable of being improved under a system of thorough drainage. Wheat and corn are the principal products. Sorghum is also raised in considerable quantities in some parts of the township. The Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway traverses the southern portion of the township. The township is well watered by Aboit creek, in the southern part, and a fine lake and its tributary in the northern part. There are eleven school districts with an attendance during the past year of 473 scholars. The township, Arcola included, has a population of, males 629; females, 537; total, 1,166.

ARCOLA is a post office village in the south-western part of the township, and a station on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway, eight miles from Fort Wayne. It contains one grocery and dry goods store, one saw mill, one shingle and lath factory, one wagon shop, one blacksmith shop, one boot and shoe shop and one saloon, and has two physicians. Population, males 66; females, 35; total 101.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

Trustee, Joseph Rockhill; Justices of the Peace, Patrick Ney, and Thomas Larimore; Constables, John Miller, and Michael McLaughlin; Assessor, John G. Clapesatle.

MADISON

Township is located in the south-eastern part of Allen Co., and is bounded on the north by Jefferson Township, south by Wells County, east by Monroe Township, and west by Marion Township. The Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway pass through the north-east corner of the township, and is the only means of transportation. Monroeville, in Monroe Township, is the nearest shipping point, being about five miles from the center of this township. The first settlement was made in 1838, by Messrs. — Browning, William Hill, George Eagy, Andrew Meek, John Edwards and Milton Holmes. The oldest man in the township is Adam Emeneheiser, age 92. The township contains several saw mills, carpenters, two blacksmith shops, three Churches—one Presbyterian, erected 1848, one Lutheran (Evangelic,) erected 1866, one Lutheran, erected 1846—ten district schools, with an average attendance of thirty-five scholars each, one Vigilant Committee, or society, organized ten or fifteen years, owing to the depredations of horse thieves. Surface of country flat, and heavily timbered with oak, ash, walnut, poplar, etc. Soil good, and well adapted to the raising of all kinds of grain, fruit and grass—grazing, especially, being good.

This Township was traversed by old General Wayne in his route to Fort Wayne from Piqua. No post office in the Township. The mails are received at Monroeville. There are no running streams in the township, but it is well watered by springs, &c. Population, males, 483; females, 425; total, 908.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

Trustee, John Flaugh; Justices of the Peace, Silas Work, Amassa Shaffer; Assessor, John Marquarot.

M A R I O N

Township, the keystone in the southern tier of Allen County townships, is bounded on the north by Adams, east by Madison, and west by Pleasant Townships, and on the south by Adams County. The surface is slightly rolling, heavily timbered and well watered.

The soil is a rich, sandy loam, universally good, there being no waste land in the township. Wheat, oats and corn are the principal productions. The township was first settled in 1835 by Jesse Heaton, Sen., David Spitler, C. Lipes, Garret Norton, Thomas Thompson and — Marion, from whom the township derived its name at its organization in 1836. These were soon followed by Judge McLain, David McLain, John M. Sorg and others, who settled on the east bank of the St. Mary's river, along the present location of the Piqua road.

The oldest inhabitant now living in the township is Jesse Heaton, 80 years of age. Himself and wife still live on the same farm which he located 34 years ago.

The principal roads traversing the township are the Piqua road, or old plank road from Fort Wayne to Decatur, the Winchester road, running along the western ridge of the township, the Flat-rock road from Williamsport to Van Wert, Ohio, and the old Piqua road, or what is generally known as the Wayne trace, the route General Wayne and his army traversed on their way to Fort Wayne.

WILLIAMSPORT, a small post office town, is situated in the south western part of the township, on the west bank of the St. Mary's River. It contains one store, one saw mill, one flouring mill, M. Cody, of Fort Wayne, proprietor, one shoe shop, one wagon shop, two blacksmith shops, two churches, one Presbyterian and one Methodist Episcopal, one school house and a post office.

MIDDLETOWN, another modest hamlet, is situated about a mile and a half south of the center of the township, on the Piqua road, eleven miles from Fort Wayne. It contains one store, one blacksmith shop, one saw mill, Messrs. Moneysmith & Morton, proprietors, one post office, two cooper shops, one hotel, one church, (Methodist Episcopal, erected in 1854,) one school house, and a Masonic lodge, organized in the year 1854, and now in a very flourishing condition. The township is well supplied with religious and educational advantages. There are seven church organizations—two Methodist Episcopal, two German Lutheran, one Baptist, one Presbyterian, and one Roman Catholic. There are fourteen schools in the township; two German Lutheran, two Roman Catholic, (one of these a Sister's school, situated near the church, on the Piqua road, eight miles from Fort Wayne,) and ten district schools. There are in the township 656 males, and 607 females; total 1,263.

Township, located in the eastern part of the county, is bounded on the north by Springfield and Scipio, on the south by Jackson, and on the west by Milan townships, and on the east by Paulding County, Ohio. It was first settled by Ulrich Saylor, sr., Ulrich Saylor, jr., and Solomon Swisher, in 1837. The township was organized in 1843. The first marriage was that of Betsy E. Saylor and Charles Harding, in 1841. The oldest settlers now living are U. Saylor, sr., U. Saylor, jr., and William Johnson. The township is traversed by the Maumee river, the Wabash and Erie canal, and the Toledo, Wabash and Western Railroad. The surface is flat, and in many places swampy. There are three school houses, a township library, a grocery at Bull Rapids, and a station and post office called Woodburn, on the Toledo, Wabash and Western R. R., sixteen miles from Fort Wayne. Population: males, 179; females, 150; total, 329.

Township, lying in the eastern part of the county, is bounded on the north by Cedar Creek and Springfield, east by Maumee, south by Jefferson, and west by St. Joseph townships. The first settlements were made from 1838 to 1840 inclusive, near the Maumee river, by Alvin Hall, George Forstater, Charles Shriner, Nathan Lake, John Nuttle, Wilkes Gillet, Andrew Wakefield, Richard Barrow, and others. The oldest residents now living are R. D. Nuttle, Charles Shriner, and Alvin Hall, who came respectively in the years 1835, 1837 and 1838. The township contains eight school houses, valued at $3,500, a Lutheran society holding its services in a school house, a township library, and a post office on the Ridge road, Solomon Benninghoff, post master. The principal streams are the Maumee river, Six Mile, Nine Mile and Ten Mile creeks. The Wabash and Erie Canal, and the Toledo, Wabash and Western Railroad passes through the township. The north-west part, (about one-third of the township,) contains some of the finest farming lands in the county. The rest is rather low and swampy, but if properly drained would make a good grazing country. Population: males, 604; females, 496; total, 1,100.

M O N R O E

Is located in the south-east corner of Allen County, midway between the rivers St. Mary and Maumee, a distance of sixteen miles from Fort Wayne, and bordering on the Ohio State line, fourteen miles from Van Wert, Ohio. This township has the facilities afforded by the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway running direct through the center of the township, thus rendering an easy access with the city of Fort Wayne, or village of Van Wert by rail, and affording a good market for the immense amount of choice timber for which the township is noted. The land is of an undulating surface, composed of a rich, black sandy loam well adapted to the raising of corn, wheat, oats, rye, barley, grass and potatoes, with all the cereals requisite for table use. The principal commerce of this township consists of the large quantity of staves, spokes, lumber and hub timber, together with the hoop poles and live stock which are being constantly shipped from Monroeville, the principal market place, situated in the centre of the township. This township was first settled in 1838 or 1839 by a few hardy pioneers who had the courage and fortitude so essential to the early settlers to induce them to forego the comforts and societies of older States for the new and most bitter trials of manhood which have to be endured in settling up a new country, in the midst of a dense wilderness far from markets of any kind, with nothing to cheer them but the prospects of the future, among them there is none more worthy of note than Peter Slemmer and Hugh Anderson, the two first settlers of Monroe Township, or of those who immediately followed them, Noah Clem, Samuel Clem, William Rabbit, Moses Ratledge, William Ratledge, Elijah Redenhouse, John Fredline, John Stephenson, Thomas Meeks and Asa Dillon, many of whom are still living upon their now old and improved farms, and are capable yet of telling of the self-trying times they have endured that they might reap the benefits in their older days.

The first white male child that was born in the township was John Ratledge. The oldest man now living in the township is Hugh Anderson, who, though very old, is still able to look to the interests of his farm and household. Monroe, unlike the most of the other townships, can boast of a smart thriving village situated about the centre of the township, wherein is constantly in operation numerous factories, steam saw and grist mills, together with all the other branches of mechanism usually carried on in inland towns or villages, while as for churches, schools and societies in general, it is unsurpassed by any township in the County, excepting Wayne. And can boast of every convenience calculated to render life pleasant in a society where benevolence and energy is necessary for public improvements as will be seen readily by observing the various churches, schools and benevolent societies, such as Masonic, Odd Fellows and Good Templars, together with the Ladies' Sociable, wherein the mite is given freely for such charitable purposes as the society deem most needy. For a more full description of the township we would refer the reader to the history of Monroeville, hereunto connected.

MONROEVILLE, the centre of Monroe Township was first laid out as a town by John Barnhart, Esq., in 1854, and is located sixteen miles eastward from Fort Wayne, on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway, and is sixteen miles from Van Wert, Ohio, and twelve miles from Decatur, the county seat of Adams County, Indiana; thus rendering it a thriving inland business point with a population of from eight to twelve hundred inhabitants, and at present has four large stave manufactories, two steam saw mills, one large flouring mill, five dry goods stores, three grocery and provision stores, two blacksmith shops, two wagon shops, with various others, such as carpenter, cabinet, boot, shoe and harness shops. This town for many years after it was laid out was nothing but a mail station upon the railroad, and its entire growth, as seen at present, has been accomplished within the last four or five years, and so rapid has been its prosperity that within one year's time it has surpassed every village in the county for business facilities derived from manufactories and merchandise.

The citizens of Monroeville are, in general, enterprising and industrious, and seem to possess a public pride worthy of commendation, as will be readily observed from their nice churches that have been lately erected, with other fine buildings already completed and in progress of erection, such as school houses, town halls, etc. The streets are kept in good repair, and few towns having double the age of Monroeville, can boast of better sidewalks. The inhabitants take a high stand in favor of education, and have already contributed largely for the purpose of erecting a Graded School suitable for the town, and surrounding country churches are well attended, and all seem to vie with each other in helping to preserve order and friendly feelings throughout the town. Of religious denominations there are three—Methodist Episcopal, Lutheran and Catholic, each denomination having a fine church and a large congregation. The benevolent institutions of Monroeville are as follows: The Monroeville Masonic Lodge, No. 293, the Independent Order of Good Templars, and the Brotherhood of Odd Fellows. Each order having a large number of members, and are in a thriving condition, possessing good halls, and meet regularly.

The principal business of the town is derived from the timber that surrounds it, and from the immense amount of staves, lumber, spokes and hubs that are bought at this place, giving employment to numerous hands in the manufacture of the same, and distributing weekly from ten to fifteen thousand dollars for those articles of trade. While at the same time Monroeville is the principal market place for Decatur, the county seat of Adams County, thus helping to contribute occupation for teaming to and fro between the two towns, and affording plenty of business for livery and horse dealers, together with the advantages derived therefrom for the two hotels of the place, where accommodations can be obtained worthy of the landlords, who endeavor to render the comfort and happiness of their guests their chief satisfaction.

PERRY

Township is bounded on the north by De Kalb County, south by Washington and St. Joseph townships, east by Cedar Creek, and west by Eel River townships. The surface of the country is rolling, and heavily timbered. The soil well adapted to raising all kinds of grain and fruits, the principal products being wheat and corn.

The first settlement of the township was made in 1830 by Mr. Weeks (who felled the first tree,) W. S. Hunter, Jos. Hunter and Mr. Hatch. The country previous to this time had been an unbroken wilderness, and the sleep of the little settlement was only disturbed by the fierce howl of the wolf and other animals. The incidents following the first settlement for a great many years were not unlike other new settlements. This being a heavily timbered country, with a rich soil, the introduction of corn, wheat, oats, &c., were the first things thought of, and to accomplish this end the timber was soon hewn away, and where the giant forest then stood we now see extensive fields of the common products of Northern Indiana.

The first white child born in the township was Harriet Weeks, the first death was Jason Hatch. This township contains one hotel, three groceries and two shoe stores, three blacksmith shops, one steam saw mill and two saw mills, (water power.) There are five churches—one Presbyterian, two Methodists, one United Brethren, one Lutheran and one Universalist. There is one Seminary situated in the center of the township, and eight District Schools, with an average attendance of 495 scholars. The township also contains one Library, one Masonic Lodge, which meets once a month, and one Lodge of Good Templars who meet weekly.

HUNTERTOWN, (Perry Post Office,) is an incorporated town situated in north-west part of the township, about ten miles from Fort Wayne, on the Lima Plank Road. There are also two railroads in course of construction, the Fort Wayne, Jackson and Saginaw and the Grand Rapids and Indiana, which run on the same grade to this place, where they are to form a junction, one taking an easterly course and the other a westerly one. The village now contains 110 inhabitants, males, 60; females, 50, one dry goods and grocery store, with post office, two grocery stores, three blacksmith shops, two boot and shoe stores, one fur glove factory, one hotel and one physician. Thus it may be seen that with the rich fertile soil, adapted to all kinds of fruit raising and agriculture, together with the easy mode of transportation, to say nothing of the mineral resources, this is destined to be one of the leading places of the county, if not of Northern Indiana. Population of township, 1091; males, 611; females, 480.

Township, situated in the southern or south-western part of the county, is bounded on the north by Wayne, on the east by Marion and on the west by Lafayette townships, and on the south by Wells county. The surface of the township is level, the soil fertile, well watered and timbered, and particularly adapted to the growth of corn and wheat, which are its principal products.

The St. Mary's River runs through the north-east corner, and the Little River in a very winding course traverses the whole length of the township. The most direct route to and through the township is the Bluffton road, which runs north and south along the centre of the township. Two other roads running parallel with the Bluffton road, the Murray road, two miles to the west, and the county road, one and a half miles east, also afford ample means of communication with all parts of the township.

There are four churches, nine school houses, one township library of 333 volumes, kept at the house of the librarian, A. F. Unger, and one post office, (called Nine-mile Post Office,) Fort Wayne, however, is the post office address of a majority of the inhabitants.

The population rates, males, 638; females, 668; total, 1,306.

Township is situated in the north-east corner of the county, twenty miles from Fort Wayne. The southern part is somewhat low, but is well adapted to the raising of corn, hay and stock. The northern part contains some of the most fertile soil in the State. Finer farms than are seen here can scarcely be found in any country. In passing up the Ridge Road the eye of the traveler will be delighted in a high degree with the well tilled fields, the carefully tended flocks, the substantial barns and out-houses, the neat and tasteful dwellings, surrounded by trees and shrubbery, and well kept lawns, all showing in addition to a high state of thrift and industry, a degree of intelligence and refinement too seldom found in farming communities. Too much can scarcely be said of the beauty of this locality.

The township was first settled by Platt Squire, Benjamin Borden, Marvin and Jehiel Parks, Lucius, Nathan and William Parmer, George and Robert Dorsey, Phillip J. Schell and John Wentworth. The first birth was that of Lafayette Squire; the first death, Laura Squire, occasioned by burning.

The early settlers, like all other pioneers, had to endure severe hardships during the first years of their settlement. At Fort Wayne, then only a trading post, they were compelled to buy their provisions and clothing, and float them down the Maumee river in pirogues to the State line, and from there to carry them on their backs six miles through an unbroken wilderness, infested with wolves, bears, wildcats, and the no less savage Indians, to whose mercy their wives and children were exposed in their absence.

There are three school houses, valued at $1,000. The township is a small one being only about one-third the size of a full township. There is one church, Methodist Episcopal, worth $1,200.

Population, males, 249 ; females, 165 ; total 414.

SPRINGFIELD

Township, lying in the north-eastern part of the county, is bounded on the north by De Kalb County, on the east by Scipio, south by Maumee and Milan, and west by Cedar Creek townships.

It was first settled in 1836 by Henry Gruber, William Ringwalt, Mr. King, Isaac Hall, Ezra May, William Sweet, and William Glaze, who built the first house in the township, west of the site of the present village of Maysville. The township was organized in 1837. It was named by Isaac Hall, after a township of the same name in Summit County, Ohio, Mr. Hall's former home. The first marriage was celebrated between Isaac Hall and Jane S. Burdue. Ezra May was the first Justice of the Peace. The first school house was built near where Maysville now stands, and Miss Anna S. Bracy was the first to wield the birch and give direction to the shooting of the young idea in the new township.

The oldest settler now living is Samuel Orno, aged about 85 years, who served as a soldier in the campaigns of the First Napoleon.

There are two post offices, Hall's Corners, in the north-east part of the township, and Harlan, in the village of Maysville. The township contains twelve school houses, valued at $6,000, and eight churches, worth about $5,000. The churches are of the following denominations : Two Methodist Episcopal, two Methodist Protestant, two Lutheran, one Dutch Reform, and one United Brethren.

MAYSVILLE, (Harlan Post Office,) a village of 260 inhabitants, lies one mile west and two miles south from the centre of the township, and is fourteen miles north-east from Fort Wayne on the Ridge Road. It contains one steam flouring mill, two steam saw mills, a shingle mill, four stores, one grocery, one cabinet shop, a butcher shop, two blacksmith shops, a boot and shoe shop, two wagon shops, a harness shop, a manufactory of window shades, a post office, an Ætna Insurance Agency, a Masonic Lodge, a Lodge of Good Templars, a two story school house, containing three rooms, three churches a photograph gallery, a veterinary surgeon, and three physicians.

CUBA, a hamlet, containing, perhaps, forty or fifty souls, is situated on the Ridge Road, near the south line of the township. It has a steam saw mill, a school house, a boot and shoe maker, and a physician.

The soil of Springfield township is generally very good, the farms are mostly well cultivated and neatly kept, churches and school houses are numerous and well attended, newspapers are liberally patronized, and it is, perhaps, safe to say that the people of this township are excelled by none in the county in enterprise, industry, morality and general intelligence. Population, males, 856 ; females, 864 ; total, 1,722.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

Trustee, W. H. Harter ; Justices of the Peace, Nelson Hall, Peter S. Crisenberry ; Assessor, Jesse Greenwalt.

ST. JOSEPH

Township, one of the centre townships of Allen County, is bounded on the north by Perry and Cedar Creek, on the east by Milan, on the south by Adams and on the west by Washington townships. It was first settled in the spring of 1835, by Uriah Notestine, John Tilburry, Jacob Sturm, Philip Lee, Christian Parker and John Herbert. The surface of the township is flat and the soil fertile, a clayey loam, well watered by the St. Joseph river, from which the township derives its name, and some smaller tributaries, and is well adapted to the raising of root and cereal crops. The timber with which the township is well supplied is mainly white oak, beach and maple.

The township contains ten district schools, four churches—one of all denominations, built in the year 1848, one German Lutheran, built the same year, one Methodist, built in 1864, and one Catholic, built in 1866—and one township library, Daniel Eby, librarian. The Fort Wayne Paper Mills, an extensive manufactory, of which Freeman, Bard & Barnett are proprietors, besides several saw mills, have their situation in this township.

The Academy of the Sacred Heart, an offshoot of the church St. Vincent de Paul, built in the year 1866, has a beautiful location and extensive grounds, on the Auburn road, six miles from the city of Fort Wayne. The main building is of brick, four stories in height, eighty by forty-five feet. The attendance has rapidly increased since its opening, the number of pupils now being about seventy-five, who are under the charge of eight Sisters of Charity, or instructors. The principal means of communication with the township is by the St. Joe river road, following the course of that river through the township. The city of Fort Wayne affords the nearest railroad station. The number of males in the township, 652 ; number of females, 719 ; total population, 1,371.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

Trustee, Daniel Eby ; Justices of the Peace, John Dougal and Francis Pepe ; Assessor, Edward A. Schrautz ; constable, James M. Fletler, and ten Supervisors.

WASHINGTON

Township, one of the centre townships of Allen County, borders on the northern line of Wayne township, and by the recent annexation of the village of Bloomingdale, embraces a small portion of the city of Fort Wayne within its borders. Its remaining boundaries are, on the east by St. Joseph, on the west by Lake, and on the north by Eel River and Perry townships. The first settlements in the township were made by Issac Klinger, Nicholas Klinger, and Rhinehart Gripe, in the year 1824, by Andrew Moore, in 1825, and by John S. Archer, David Archer, and Adam Pettit, Thomas Hatfield, Asahel Savery and John Cook, in 1826. The township was organized in March, 1832, at the March session of the County Commissioners, and John S. Archer was appointed, during the same year, inspector of elections until the following April. The election was held at the residence of Thomas Hatfield; Moses Sivets was elected Justice of the Peace.

The first white child born was David L. Archer, born January 1st, 1827. The first death was that of Catharine Ihler, who died July 2nd, 1825. The surface of the country is rolling, sloping gradually toward the south and east. The soil is a good sandy loam, well adapted to the raising of wheat, corn, oats and grasses. The St. Joseph river, which flows through the south-eastern part of the township in a winding, mainly south-westerly, direction, together with Spy run, Beckett's branch, and the Feeder Canal, afford ample facilities for all necessary water privileges. The Lima, Goshen and Leesburg plank roads traverse the township in north-westerly directions, and are the principal means of transportation and travel. Two railroads, however, the Fort Wayne, Jackson and Saginaw, and Grand Rapids and Northern Indiana Railroads, from the city of Fort Wayne northward through the township, are now in the process of construction, and will soon add materially to the advantages and commercial prosperity of the inhabitants. The township contains two churches—one Catholic, St. Vincent de Paul, situated in the north-eastern part of the township, on the town line, between St. Joseph and Washington; Rev. Auguste Adams, in charge. This church was built in the year 1861, and its parsonage in 1862. The number of families attending is about 125. One Methodist, (Bethel Chapel,) built in 1842, is situated in the north-western part of the township. There are three libraries, one township of six or seven hundred volumes, John McQuiston, librarian, and two Sunday School of about one hundred and twenty-five volumes each.

The first school held in the township had ten scholars, and was taught by Alexander Waldron in a log cabin, in the year 1829. The township now contains eight free schools, with an average attendance of over seven hundred scholars, and two German Lutheran, one of which is situated in the eastern and the other in the south-western part, with an average attendance of about thirty scholars each. The oldest citizens now residing in the township, are Babel Wainwright, ninety-five years of age, and Victor Beurree, seventy-five. The township boasts two saw mills, one on the Lima road, five miles from Fort Wayne, Frederick Holman and Henry Sadelmaier, proprietors, and one same distance on the Goshen road, William Rudolph, proprietor; one tannery, one mile north of the city, H. Braeuchle & Co., proprietors; two grist mills, one on the east branch of the Lima road, three-quarters of a mile north of city, John E. Hill, proprietor, and one on the west branch of the same road; one spoke factory, north of Bloomingdale, on the Feeder Canal, Brackenridge & Taylor, proprietors; two breweries, one the French Brewery, one mile north of city, on Lima road, Charles and Louis Centlivre, proprietors, and one in the northern part of Bloomingdale, F. J. Beck, proprietor; two sorgho mills, Jesse Coles, and Benjamin Hatfield, proprietors respectively; two lawyers and two ministers. The population of Washington township is as follows: No. of males, 780; No. of females, 844; total, 1624.

W A Y N E

Township. Of the twenty townships comprising Allen County, Wayne is by far of the most importance, being situated on an elevated plain, at the junction of the St. Mary's and St. Joseph rivers, and containing the city of Fort Wayne, the County seat, and one of the most important commercial centers in the state. The township is bounded on the north by Washington, south by Pleasant, east by Adams and west by Aboit townships. The surface of the country is rolling, with a gradual slope in every direction from the city of Fort Wayne. The soil is well adapted to raising wheat, corn, oats, buckwheat, timothy and clover, and is well watered by the St. Mary's, St. Joseph and Maumee rivers. There are some fine belts of timber in this township of walnut, hickory, oak, maple and poplar. Generally, however, the supply for building purposes has become quite limited, especially in the neighborhood of Fort Wayne. As early as in 1700, this point at the junction, was visited by the French for the purpose of trading with the Indians, and before 1800 a regular trading post was established in the township, thus making it a grand commercial center, destined to become the most important township in Northern Indiana. The township is now traversed in every direction from Fort Wayne by roads, generally good, affording easy communication with every part of the county. The facilities for education and general knowledge are unsurpassed in the county. The schools are excellent, and so situated that they are within the reach of all, several of them being graded schools. The township library is situated in the city, comprising about 2,000 volumes, and is open to all every Saturday. The librarian and township trustee is John G. Maier.

Notwithstanding the churches in the city are convenient to all the inhabitants in the township, there are several well built churches in the country, well attended by interested congregations and having good Sunday school libraries. The farms are all well improved, having good buildings, and many orchards of choice fruit.

The township is thickly settled, having, exclusive of Fort Wayne, the largest population of any township in the county. Number of males, 1,186; females, 1,014; total, 2,200.
